

VILLA COMING ALL MEXICO FOR TROOPS

Beaten by Obregon, He Intends to Attack Again With a Larger Force.

TAPPAN GETS A RESPITE

WASHINGTON, April 18.—A controversy is still in progress between Villistas and Carranzistas as to the results of the fighting last week at Celaya, where Obregon said he won a decisive victory. The State Department has not yet received any report from George C. Carothers, who is with Villa, a fact which is regarded as significant in itself, but the opinion in official quarters is that Villa has been defeated, though probably not to the extent Obregon has asserted.

The Villa agency announced to-night that Gen. Villa was gathering up all available soldiers from other parts of Mexico to renew the attack upon Gen. Obregon. This statement is regarded as an admission that he got the worst of the last two battles and is supplemented by a Carranza statement that the Villistas have been withdrawn from before Eban in the Tampico district, where fighting for possession of the oil region has been going on for a month.

The Carranzistas paid their respects to-night to the boom for Angeles as the compromise man for President of Mexico, confirming the existing understanding that the Carranzistas will not have Villa as chief lieutenant. The Carranzistas received a despatch from Gen. Cruz today predicting that the defeat of Villa would result in Angeles taking the lead for the reactionaries.

Angeles Gras Opportunity.

In the last two days there have been abundant evidences here that Angeles' friends saw in the results of the Villista-Obregon engagements an opportunity to put their man forward as the next savior of Mexico. Well informed persons here seem inclined to dismiss the Angeles talk as futile.

The Carranzistas assert that Villa has passed through Irapuato on his way north from the scene of battle and that he is attempting to reorganize his forces for another stand, but without success. Gen. Obregon is said to be pursuing the retreating Villistas, but there have been no despatches showing any evidence in support of this statement.

Great elation continues to be shown by the Carranzistas over what they understand to be the result of the fighting at Celaya. Eliseo Arredondo, the agent here, said that the defeat of Villistas by Gen. Obregon would be a disaster to the Carranzistas, who, he asserted, are not devoted to a cause but to a personal ambition. He said he was ready to forsake in the days of his adversity. He said he did not look for another battle of importance in Mexico for some time, believing that the operations in the immediate future would be directed toward the clearing up of all the various Villa forces.

Looks for Peace Soon.

"Peaceful conditions in Mexico should be soon restored," he said. "The American people should understand that the Mexican revolution has been waged against a despotism inconceivable to our freedom-loving people. The cause of the people against the mercenary, the grafter, the monopolist, and so far as the church is concerned, the only aim of the revolution is to bring the clergyman within the province of the nation—no more meddling in the political affairs of the country."

The State Department was advised today that proceedings in the case of Alfred Tappan, an American sentenced to death by a court-martial at Merida, Yucatan, have been suspended on representations by the United States government pending an investigation of the case by representatives of the United States.

Looks for Border Trouble.

Unless conditions on the international boundary between Mexico and Texas improve soon there may be breaches of the peace, according to Representative L. Clayton K. Clayton, who came to Washington to attend the meeting of the trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Mr. Clayton has long been an advocate of Pan-American intervention in Mexico to settle the trouble. But the troubles are gradually growing worse, he says, and the demand for intervention of some sort is increasing even among the conservative citizens along the border.

"Nearly everybody sympathizes with the President's desire to keep the peace," said Mr. Clayton. "But many peaceable, intelligent, law-abiding citizens are beginning to doubt whether or not it can be done."

"I believe that if it becomes necessary to intervene in Mexico the United States should do so on a basis of non-interference with the Pan-American republics. Otherwise these republics to the south of us will look on the move by our Government as one for conquest and annexation."

WIN OR DIE, SAYS VILLA.

With No Ammunition, He Begins "Last Fight" on Obregon.

El Paso, Tex., April 18.—Having received word of supplies of ammunition, Gen. Villa has resumed his attack on the entrenched army at Celaya, according to a message from the leader received here to-day. The message follows:

"Gen. Villa's encampment near Celaya, April 18.—The last against Obregon's trenches has just begun. It will be the last fight. Either we defeat Obregon or we die in the attempt."

"As we have been completely surrounded his only alternative is to fight or be captured by the Mexicans."

Gen. Villa, other reports said, received three carloads of ammunition he had requisitioned from Gen. Jose Rodriguez, who had just abandoned the siege of Matamoros and also got another supply from Gen. Raul Madero at Monterrey.

A carload of ammunition received here to-day by express from New York was rushed south by special train and it was announced that further supplies would follow.

The Carranza agency here received from Vera Cruz to-day a cablegram saying Obregon was steadily advancing northward and that Villa had fled with the remnants of his army. It was presumed that Gen. Felipe Angeles would assume command. The despatch quoted Gen. Carranza as expressing the belief that the backbone of the northern rebellion was broken.

NO BULLFIGHT, SO HUERTA JOINS FANS

Ex-Dictator Journeys to Newark to See Baseball Game.

WON'T ANSWER ATTACK

The weather was so alluring yesterday that Gen. Victoriano Huerta, ex-dictator of Mexico, now visiting this country, turned his back upon the political agitation stirred among Mexicans in this city by his statement of last Friday and attended a ball game in Newark.

The suggestion of the hotel clerk at the Ansonia that the thing to do on such a day as yesterday was to see a baseball game was heartily acted upon by Mexico's noted refugee.

Upon the return of the party to the hotel Abraham Ratner, the General's guide, said that the General had enjoyed every moment of the game between Newark and Baltimore. He had learned the rules by seeing games in Mexico.

"Baseball is interesting," explained the guide, "but bullfights are better yet, as all Americans who go a few times in Mexico will tell you."

Huerta Refuses to Talk. When asked if Huerta had yet found words for his opinion of the statement given the press on Saturday by former Ministers Lascruian, Hernandez and Ernesto Madero, who branded Huerta as a traitor and said that the usurpation of power by the ex-dictator was the cause of the present unrest in Mexico, Mr. Ratner produced the following, prepared by Gen. Huerta:

"I will not engage in private controversies. American readers must judge themselves between the sincerity and truthfulness of my statements and the attacks directed against me."

When questioned as to the general's purpose in New York and as to the truthfulness of published allegations that he had been brought back from Spain by American agents in order to "start something in the way of a revolution," Mr. Ratner said:

"I can give it to you from the General that he is in the United States to see the country and for no other reason. He has made no political visits since coming to New York."

Visitors Only Say "Hello!" A few former political associates have dropped in to say hello, but that is all. The General will remain in New York for about three weeks. Then he will take Mr. Ratner to Philadelphia and other cities. No official visits have been arranged for Washington.

It was learned yesterday that there are in New York plenty of Mexicans formerly associated with Huerta who will vouch for the truth of the three Ministers' statement published yesterday. A prominent associate of Felix Diaz, nephew of the former Mexican President, speaking for Diaz at the Hotel Aberdeen yesterday, said that the charges made by the United States against Huerta were true. He said that Felix Diaz would never visit Huerta. Diaz, he said, is in Montreal.

Huerta's movements expressed belief that Huerta had left at least $5,000,000 in gold in Spain.

FARMERS' BIG PROFITS

War Demands, It Is Said, Added $200,000,000 to Growers' Gains.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Europe's war has enriched middle West farmers approximately $200,000,000, the money going chiefly to growers of grains. What speculators have made by the war perhaps never will be known.

A prominent grain merchant said the $200,000,000 "extra" received by farmers for their bumper wheat, corn and oats crops can be readily accounted for by the increase in the market value of prices on cash wheat. He pointed out that wheat now is selling, and has been for months, at from 25 cents to 50 cents more a bushel than it would have brought but for the war.

"OLD PROB" TO AID FARMERS.

New Forecasts for Crop Season Will Help Shippers Too.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—A new weekly forecast designed especially to aid farmers in planning operations and to help shippers of perishable products to handle their goods with reference to weekly conditions will be inaugurated Tuesday by the United States Weather Bureau, and it will be continued during the crop season. The bureau has arranged a system whereby the forecast will be taken on Tuesday and the weekly forecasts, especially in the corn, wheat and cotton districts, by mail on Wednesday morning.

The forecasts will cover the week commencing Wednesday. They will be telegraphed to State distributing centers, where they will be immediately printed and put into the mails. It is expected that the forecasts will be ready for mailing from the distributing centers at 3 or 4 o'clock each Tuesday afternoon.

Patrolmen Wilson and Giesbrecht of the East 104th street police station found Giacomo Catione of 339 East 104th street and Vincent Capozzi of 217 First street, Brooklyn, lying on the sidewalk with stab wounds in the face and thigh. They learned that a third injured man had been taken home. They went to 331 East 106th street and found Pavia unconscious on his bed. He and Catione were removed to Bellevue Hospital and Capozzi was taken to the Harlem Hospital.

ROCKAWAY BILL HIT BY PRENDERGAST A D

City Administration's First Protest Made Against Session Plan.

N. Y. FINANCES IN PERIL

Declaring that a dangerous precedent will be established, that the credit of New York city will be threatened and that the city will be molested by many millions of dollars if the bill providing for the session of the Rockaways from New York city becomes a law, Duncan MacInnes, chief accountant in the office of the Comptroller, has made an attack on the bill in the form of a report to his chief. The bill creating a separate city of Rockaway was passed by the Assembly last week and its supporters are stating that the Senate will pass it at once. Mr. MacInnes' objections to the measure are the first raised by the city government, most of the members of the board of estimate having announced their willingness to change if the matter of adjustment of finances between this city and the proposed city could be accomplished.

Mr. MacInnes makes his principal objection to session under any conditions on the ground of the detrimental effect it will have on this city's finances. The Rockaway bill provides for an adjustment of the financial debt of the city with a new issue whereby only a proportion of its holdings would be represented in bonds of the city of New York and a proportion by bonds of the new Rockaway city.

"If the city of New York," Mr. MacInnes continues, "was to be dismembered to the extent outlined by the bill seeking to create a new Rockaway city, taxable real estate valued at $14,877,945 would be taken away from the total real estate assessed value of the city of New York for the year 1915. This in turn would mean that the city's constitutional debt limit of $56,792,917 as of January 2, 1915, would be decreased to $51,965,129, and the $19,157,312 of unreserved margin which at that date was available for further authorization would be decreased to $14,269,524."

"The lifting off from the city of the Fifth ward, Borough of Queens, would mean the loss of the greater of the city of New York, that is, from the holder of New York bonds, his equity in the annual revenue realized from approximately $4,000,000 of taxable real estate would be reduced by said amount, the security upon which he had loaned his money to the city. It seems to me that the city's credit would have something to say about whether he is willing that the security upon which he loaned his money should be impaired or reduced."

When the bill was introduced, Mr. MacInnes stated, "it was to be understood that the city's credit would be impaired or reduced."

The women were taken to Bruer's Hotel, at Hancock street and the boulevard, and before being taken to the ambulance from St. John's Hospital. He attended the women and later they were taken to their home.

Mr. Matzenauer struck her face against one of the front seats and received a bad cut. Her right arm and shoulder were also injured, and the driver, who was driving the car, was seriously injured to her side and at first it was thought some of her ribs were broken. Both women suffered greatly from shock.

TAXI FIRE DRAWS CROWD.

Flight Chiefs and Many Engines Summoned to Blaze.

Henry Streifer is a plain taxi mouth. When he roared from the junction of Broadway and 14th street, the Pennsylvania station last night on the seat of a machine that belched fire and smoke like a three alarm blaze there were persons about who said that Henry had never seen it.

He was about 150 feet from the top of the runway, with no passengers, when he took the turn and saw long blue flames licking up the side of the car. Streifer kept on going until he shot out on the sidewalk and then he stopped.

The taxi resembled a small blast furnace then and some one turned in an alarm that brought fire trucks, a water tower and eight chiefs. Four of them, Henry Streifer, Mass., Hartford, Conn., and Pittsburgh. They are learning New York methods with Hook and Ladder Company 24, and some four or five men were sent out to take the engine wrong is with extinguishers and good foot-work.

When it was all over Streifer found that he had escaped with a ruined machine and a few slight bruises, but before he went to his home at 223 East Forty-sixth street a lot of people crowded around and told him that as fire wagon driver he made Phobus look like an amateur.

From December to March the reports show a decrease of $665,310 in bills payable and a reduction of $1,012,957 in redemptions.

VETERANS KEEP UP 41 SALOONS AT BATH

Report to Travis Says Liquor Crows Soldiers' Home Guard House.

ASSAULTS SING SING AGAIN

ALBANY, April 18.—Belfast street, which leads to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Bath, contains eleven saloons, and the effect of their accessibility to the inmates of the home is described in a report made to State Controller Travis by his secretary, Wendell Cleland, who is investigating State institutions.

"The soldier who has charge of the guardhouse at the State Soldiers' Home, that two years ago when these saloons did not exist, there were perhaps only ten men placed each month in the guardhouse for drunkenness and fractiousness of the rules. Now ten each night is a low number. He said also that within a few days previous to my visit one old man had got drunk, wandered on to the railroad tracks and was killed by a train."

"A citizen of Bath further told me that he knew of cases where old soldiers had gone into saloons and received only a dollar change for $10 bills. I think only one thing could be done as a relief of the saloons, and that is to have strict orders about the old soldiers leaving the grounds."

Speaking of the eleven saloons, apparently so far from Bath itself to offer inducements to the inhabitants of the place except the veterans, the report says:

"It must be quite obvious that the sole purpose of these saloons is to prey on the old soldiers. The commandant frankly admitted that Belfast street was a den of iniquity and that it was a disgrace to the community."

The conditions at Sing Sing prison are described by Secretary Cleland as a relief of the saloons, and that it is a disgrace to the community."

Mention is made in the report of the system which Warden Osborne has instituted at the prison and while no criticism is offered of the scheme the ultimate success of it is doubted. However, Secretary Cleland says, the government plan ought to help some of the men. A recommendation is made for a deputy warden.
